About The National Retail Awards

Now in their 51st year, the National Retail Awards are the industry's most prestigious awards recognising and celebrating the outstanding individuals and businesses driving growth and innovation in retail, both in-store and online.

This year the awards are bigger and better with seven new categories, a simplified nomination procedure, and free entry for both members and non-members.

Centre managers, franchisees and retailers are encouraged to nominate their business, a standout employee or colleague.

The National Retail Awards are delivered by the National Retail Association, a not-for-profit organisation representing the interests of retailers across Australia, providing workplace relations and legal services, advocacy, training and networking events.

2023 Award Categories

This year there are a bumper 17 awards with seven new categories, providing more chances for retailers to shine.

You don't have to be a member of the National Retail Association to enter – all retailers across Australia are encouraged to enter.

Awards Timeline

Why Get Involved?

Do you know the best and most innovative retailers in the industry?

The personal and professional rewards for winners are immense. Not only will winners gain national recognition with PR and branding opportunities to raise their profile, they also have an opportunity to attend a National Retail Association workshop of their choice to enhance their skills and experience, with the total prize value estimated at $2,700.
